Subject: case number 2012-288-E

My wife and I, retired and living on a fixed income urge you to not approve SCE&G's request for a rate increase/

This is at least the fifth rate increase sought by SCE&G since 2008. The current average monthly residential bill for 1000 kWh SCE&G customer is $135.06 compared to $99.53 for Duke and $100.78 for Progress customers.

We have done weatherization improvements and keep out thermostats set low in the winter and high in the summer and reduced our over-all usage, but continue to have higher electric bills,. If approved, the average monthly residential bill effective January 2013 for 1000 kWh SCE&G customer would be $141.73 which would be 42.4 percent more than Duke and 40.6 percent more than Progress customers pay for the same amount of electricity service.

Please say no to another SCE&G rate increase.

Thanks
